

NALP National Collegiate Landscape Competition Student Conduct

NCLC is the best opportunity for students to come together with industry to network and possibly meet future employers. Students attending the event should conduct themselves in a professional manner at all times.

NALP and the NCLC Committee recommends that each school set guidelines for their students to follow in regards to alcohol consumption and late night activities. The responsibility of enforcing those guidelines will be up to each faculty advisor. All students and faculty should be aware that unbecoming conduct of a student could result in being disqualified from competing in or attending future National Collegiate Landscape Competition events.

The final decision on whether a student will be disqualified will be made by the NCLC Committee Chair.
